VIEW OF TEA GARDENS

FOREWORD

THERE are many places of interest in this old town of Evesham. It has two magnificent Churches, also a fine Bell Tower 110 feet in height.

The Churches and Tower are approached through an old Norman Gateway built in the 12th Century by the Abbot of the Monastery. Part of the Monastery is still in existence and is situate on Merstowe Green; nearby can be seen the original stocks used in ancient days for punishing offenders against the law.

In 1265 the Battle of Evesham was fought, and in which Simon de Montfort (Earl of Leicester) was killed. In the Abbey Manor grounds a memorial to this far-reaching event was erected in 1845 by the late E. J. Rudge, Esq.

The Town of Evesham is a corporate Borough under a Charter granted by James I. in 1605. It is ideally situated on the River Avon midway between Stratford-on-Avon and Tewkesbury.

Our own steamers and motor launches offer a wonderful opportunity to enjoy the amenities of the beautiful River Avon, and to those who prefer boating or punting these can be hired at our own landing stage.

The Avon Bridge Cafe adjoins the lovely Abbey Park and is opposite the Workman Pleasure Gardens. Both these parks and other recreation grounds have been beautifully laid out by the Evesham Borough Council, with facilities for tennis, bowling, putting greens, and the usual amenities of public parks. The children have a wonderful playground and bathing pool.
